WOMEN IN THE RAIN.

It rained in London yesterday. Now and again. From very dawn to sunset the allver skei a slented down upon the wun attoets, the dark shining roofs, and the grey-green circling Thames. It was astit ; necompan ment for the mood of Londonand not of London only. After the fitful tension of our life here for the last week the egol and quiet lapse of the rain reflected the breaking of the fever that we could and did -control, but needs must confers, There is something in mere rain that brings the country, across the footlights of the town. All the week we had been walking in similight over our own shidows upon the payement, self centred and something egotiatical. With the rain came the temombranes of the long, rich levels of Lincolnshire, other blue green depths, or the Weald, the quiet sanken Lines and meadowsweet of Devon; and London drew up to berself once more the land for which she stands eternal sponsor. We were all England in the rain. We had made our terrible election, and we thanked God that at least dishonour could never be ours. Outside a grey stone house there was a growd, not a very large one. Most of the crowd were women, who waited stendily in the showers. After a while one looked at them with new eyes. It was a symbol of that awful waiting, that waiting, helpless and dry eyed, that must always he won an a lot when the last appeals have failed, and the fight has to be fought out. Among them there was a keen eyed, thin recent Little Suffragiet, with a wisp" or partycoloured ribbons and a few p pers to sell. A policeman, in a waterproof cape, paced slowly up and down outside the group. There was another on the step hold are the half-opened door. Nothing was said except now and then in a low tone; and the man came down steadily. "If you had asked the women why they waited secreely one could have told you. Only they could no longer stry at home. Was there nothing, nothing that they could do? This sentence of perpetual necleus-ness at the greatest of all moments in the life of England was monstrous, archaic. unbearable. Yet there was a sone that it's injustice was not of man's making, and at the last; perhaps, some r alication that there was much and great work and patience to be achieved in dall home. A small lithe figure in a dark blue robe and nurse's headgear made its way, bag in hand, through and up the steps. The policeman saluted and opened the door.

A moment later a well-groomed, greywoman, with dark hair, went up the steps --- and was refused admittance. There was something that made the little crowd marmur together that she was French. Turning at the word, she paused a moment on the upper step. Her young face was well-cut, but alm st haggard. She said, quietly, "No, I am Austrian." There was a silence. The policeman saluted. She came down the steps, and a path of respect and sympathy was made for her. One can never have the last touch of grace with some gracious women. She bowed a finger's breadth, and said quite simply. "But this does not happen except in Fingland. Thank you." She was gone; the crowd filled in and turned again to its own tortured selfcontrol. The Suffragist put away, her papers and became as other women. One sobbed, but those near her said " Hush because they wanted to bush themselves. She pulled herself together. The door opened and the capable little nurse reappeared with her bag. She came down the steps, and as she came the Suffragist spoke to her. "Is there nothing that I can do?" The nurse looked at her, and her keen glance melted a little. "I'm afraid not; not yet . . . hot yet. Perhaps after-wards. A moment later she, too, was gone, a compact and businesslike little belper in time of trouble.

Was there nothing to be done by women Nothing ? The little crowd remained, and the rain came down steadily upon them.

It is rep reed that the rice crop in Japan this year is considered to be very good though it has been affected by drought or floods more or less seriously in some provinces. The estimates of the crop made by the authorities concerned amount to 57,993,068 koku. The figures show an increase of about 8 million koku or 15.5 per cent. as against the crop of last year.

TSINGT U NEWS.

JAPAN MOVING SLOWLY,

As was only to be expected, the Japaneso authorities have allowed as 'little news as possible to filter through about their movements outside Kiacchow Day and around the coasts of these waters The preliminary arrangements regarding the dispositions of the land forces can not, of course, be kept entirely secreand from the water front practically no thing has come through regarding the work of the Navy. On a very much simulton scule, however, the Japaneses Squadrous are doing much the same work as the British Home Fleet is doing in the North Sea. Mines are difficulties which have first to be pelved before the serious work can be commenced while it would also appear that the warships age waiting until the transport of the troops from Japan to the mainland of China is completed-a more difficult task than the transport of the British Forces over their forty or fifty miles across the British Channel. Both of these preliminaries are being satisfactorily carried out; however, and it may now be accepted that in a very few weeks time the first shots in the real bombardment of Germany's Far Eastern Colony will be ared. The days of waiting are, of course, much more anxious ones for the defenders than for the men taking part in the offensive movement. While all this German delegrams from Tsingtonindicate that the men are in good spirits there can be no doubt that the longer they are left to realise the position and a rength should be about double that of its utter hopelessness so much the worse must it naturally be for the morale of

> With the advancing forces it is different. Apart entirely from the fact that in the long run they are going to emergo successful from the conflict, they are at the present time too busy to spare time for reflection on the situation. The loyalty and love of country and Emperor are characteristics of the Japanese Army which do not require further proof after be no questioning the fighting spirit of the troops. Telegrams and letters. which have reached here from Shantung announce that that province, and especilly the part of it around Tsington, has been visited by a terrible rain storm since the beginning of September and that the country surrounding the German town is to a considerable exten flooded. This will certainly considerably retard the advance of the land forces, the principal detachments of which have now been I safely landed at Lungkow.

No report has been received in Shanghal of any bombardment of Tsingtan by the buttleships of the Japanese Navy and it is now thought that the idea is to take the town with as little damage as possible to the buildings. News there In smaller cruising ships the Powers of has been of the reconnecting of the enemy's position on land and sea by Japanese scaplanes and there is abunda ant 'proof thus the offensive forces are proceeding to the attack on methodical, against them, if they attempt to use their it leisnrely, lines. The results of this will probably be seen when the actual bombordment and attack does take place. It looks very much as if London is not to send out my news of the doings of the Far Eastern Squadrons until their German reservi-ts, according to a Tientsin | work has been completed. No official since the warnstarted although we have uid Mediterranean, African, Australasian and East Indian Archipelago mesanges. The capture of Samon, however, have been the firthest East news we have received through efficial sources and apparently the authorities do not wish the enemy to be made aware of any of the movements of the China Squadrea. It is now believed, however, that the British and French warships are engaged rounding up the largest German cruisers and the eren which may hav to be covered in this task is such as easily account for any delay. That the ships of the enemy have been eleared off all the beaten trucks across the Pacific and to Australia and Sucz is known but beyond that their whereabouts are mystery save probably to the Admiralty officials.-" Shanghai Mercury."

Countess Walderses, whose death was recently announced, was the describer of David Lee, a wholesale New York grocer. The German Empress's uncle. Prince Frederic of Schleswig-Holstein, abandoned his Royal rank and sasumed the title of Mrs. Martha Waldeck has just died at Prince of Voer in order to make her his Twiskenham at the age of 104. She was consort. After her second marriage (to the femous Field-Marshal) the Countess. who were brillian'ly clover woman, wielded considerable influence elver her Imperial niece and her husband. Perhaps this was why the Empress Frederic. during her brief spell of power, transferred Coine Waldersoe to a minor command at Altona.

The refusal, of Italy to stand by its undertakings to the other, two Powers in the Triple Alliance is a serious blow for Germany. It was not intended to use the forces of Italy actively to invade France on the southeast. The Germans had been advised that it was undesirable to set one Latin race against another; and that they could not be relied upon the fight one against the other. It was only intended to keep a force of Italians adheient to necessitate a large retaining force on the south-eastern frontier of France, and also to utilise Italians to the German troops. One more point I wish to make clear, It was everywhere recognised that Bri min's attitude was the key to the whole position. The Germans have staked their success on the assumption that Britain would never dure to intervene. Their mistake should cost them dear.

WAR AND BELLGIOUS PERVOUR. The country is in a state of a religious fervour that borders on fariaticism and it is not necessary to go to the erowded churches to find this out. In St. Petersburg, Moscow and other large cities offices and shops are short, of employees, many of these men, though not called to arms, 'insisting on joining as volunteers to do their little share of good for their country. The recent telegraphic despatch of the Commander-in-Chief of the Russian troops on the German frontier to the Tor, and the unbroken and continued advance of the Russian army into Galicia and East Prussia goes a long way to show that, if Russia did take some little time before she had completed her arrangements for an advance against the Germans, these arrangements are new complete in bevery detail. She is now making the advance already decided upon days before, and following this army will be sent adequate support, so as to make retreat almost an impossibility."

ATT CONDITION OF CHINESE Evererything is very quiet with the Chinese in northern Munchuria, and there, is no revolutionary muttering; no is said to be the case in Mukden and south Manchuria. This is principally duo to the Jack that most Chinese can make money up here, and that most of the influential and prosperous have their homes in other parts of China, merely coming to these parts to make money which they curry wave with thefr south.-N. London, Sept. 17, 8.25 p.m. rds, Lord Kitchener, in outlining the military consummate skill of Field Marshal Sir John French and his orl of troops in face of the conduct of a strategical withdrawal appropriated to the filly superior force. The Government, he said, had rendered to bis value of the services which the Field Marshal also prid a tribute to and the cause of the Alles. Lord Kitchener bravery and endurant and ability of the other Generals, and the Officers, and men.

BY TELEGRAPH.

The tide, he proceeded, had now turned, and the troops were of good heart and ready to advance when the moment arrived. The gallant French armies with which they were so proud to co-perate would receive every support of the British in their national disire to clear their country of the invadors. Lord Kitchener paid a tribute to the Relgian and Russian armies, and said that to-day there was ground for quiet confidence; but we must most strenuously develop our army to bring this mighty struggle to a successful issue.

The Secretary of State for War went on to say that there were now in the field more them six British Divisions and two Cavalry Divisions. These would be maintained at full strength by the flow of reinforcements of further regulars, additional cavalry being organised from the Overseas garrisons, including highly trained and efficient troops, from India of historic fame. There would also be several divisions locally trained in the light of experience of the South African war, and in the case of Australia and New Zealand, under their new system.

. Lord Kitchener emphasised that in the recruiting there had been most remarkable demonstrations of energy and patriotism by the young mer, of the country, and he proposed to organise from this splendid material four new armies whose training would be simplified by zeal and goodwill. The Territorials, before many months, would be ready to take shot and the gang- committed suicide. their share in the campaign. A Division had calroady gong to Egypt, and a Brigade to Malta. He also amounted that separation allowances to wives would be increased, and his lordship referred to the assistance to be received in the field from a division of Marines and. Bluejackets which was being organised by Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty. Lord Nitchener concluded by remarking that in a country priding itself on outdoor sports they ought to be able to find sufficient young officers. He was confident that by the Spring Great Britain would prove themselves formidable opponents.

Since Thursday, the Toth, the Miles have stendily driven the enemy back over undulating country with patches of thick wood. The chief! thetical features were six rivers, which ran across the direction of the advance. The British met with little resistance, and on Friday turned slightly north-east, co-operating with their Allies who had a substantial Challenge Shields were as follows :-success along the whole fine!

On Saturday the enemy occupied a most formidable position opposite us to the north of Aisne, while Soissons was strongly held and entrenched. The Third British Corps gained the high ground overlooking Aisne and east of Soissons. An artillery duel easied until midnight, The enemy's many heavy Howitzers were in well-concealed positions. The Allies took the southern half of Soissons during the night and this was the beginning of the battle of the Aisne, in heavy rain.

On Sunday there was an extremely strong resistance along the whole of the British front of fifteen miles. There was much artillery work, the Germans using heavy Howitzers, guarding the crossings of the river Aisne with quickfirers,

Portions of all three of the British Corps crossed the river at night-The Frenchmen on our left are also pressing on, arthonous crossed the Aisne on the top of a one girder reilway bridge. During these days injury isolated parties of Germans have been House of Commons.

FINANCING THE WAR.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR PRO-LONGED STRUGGLE.

Measures have been instituted in Engaland, France, and Gormany, says that New York Times, for the financial support of their war operations. The British Parliament voted a war appropristion of $25,000,000. In Germany # bill was introduced to appropriate $1,-250,000,000. The French Parliament authorized the Bank of France to increase its note issue from about $1,340,. 800,000 to $2,400,000,000 and to abstain from paying out gold in archange for apress. Only in the case of France was there any definite indication of how. the money is to be raised, aside from drawing on Government funds already in hand. These steps, brought to a head the discussion that has been in progression. banking circles here der several days as to, how a war on such a scale as the present que is to be financed. The opinion has been frequently expressed inthe last few days that the war wouldhave to be short, as it could not be financed if it continued for any length of time. MONEY FOR SEVERAL YEARS. There was now a tendency to take" different view of the situations One & financial expert, who is well qualified a to speak on the subject, said the European, nations would be able to carry on the war for several years so far as financing it was concerned, "In the first place." he said, "it is well known that for a year or so several of the nations involved have been building up their gold reservos, some of themto an unprecedented extent. This was done by Germany some time ago. Russia texk similar action about the same time. More recently France has been acquiring gold, especially from the son, Mr and Mrs F. A. Dickhoff, Mr M. Responses, Ferial ; Psalms. Old Melody, United States, and it has hesitated at Travers; Magnificat, Hopkins (over); no extra cost in doing so, our expects to-Paris being made, not on the bails of netual, exchange conditions, but -* special transactions.* Austria, too, has taken the same course to some extent. These augmented gold reserves furnish the basis for an increase of currency of several times the amount of the gold.

TAXATION. "Another great resource a that has already been availed of is that of taxation. "Throughout almost the entire career of Napoleon he financed his wars by this means, not resorting to large land issues and still less to the issue of irredeemable currency, the fallecy of which had been learned from earlier experionces. .. In his latter days short-Besponses, Festal: Venite, Barnby 1st term notes were issued in exchange for Day : Psalms, 1 Psalm only to Foster; materials and subsistence, but taxation; was his chief means of supports This 249 (3rd part); Mendelssohn, National is sometimes too little regarded in discussions of the financing of the present war, which usually centre about possible:

gigantie issues. GERMANY'S HEAVY PROPERTY WAX "Germany recently imposed a special tax for one year on property at the rate of 5 per cent., which takes the entire income from the property for the year. This was doubtless done in view of impending warfare. Franco has just on-Evening Service at 6 p.m: - Hymns, 356, acted an income tax for the first time. Although it is only 5 per cont... which is a very different thing from a 5 per cent, property tax, the rate may easily be raised now that the machinary for the collection of he tax has been set up. # Germany has long had an income tour which is at a low rate on small incomes, but is heavily graduated on larger ones. it reaches incomes of quite small size This also may easily be increased. In England, of course, the same condition exists. "A tax on industry has often been reserted to in Europe in times of stress, and has been readily borne. It is as easy to put a tax on a hat manufacturer, for instance, as it is on the sale of liquor, the tax on which has been carried to a hight in New York State. The liquor business has not been affected in amount by this great increase over the old licence fees, and the experience with a tax on industry is that it is w burden not hard to bear.

SEGURAT BOND ISSUES. "Great bond issues are more casily absorbed than is sometimes supposed, in cases where mr appeal to patriotism is behind them. This is particularly true in Europe, where there is always much money boarded. In the past foreign securities have been heavily sold in order that the holders may invest in their national war loans. In the present instance this recourse is removed for the time being by the closing of the ex-

" Finally, irredeemable currency may by resorted to, although this is hardly to be done except in Austria. The exbe put out; however, is much better understood now than when it was abused with disastrous results in earlier periods, and its use is therefore not at all out of the question.
